TRIUMPH SPITFIRE BUYING GUIDE. Posted by Matt Bell on 20th February 2019. Based on the compact Herald saloon, the Triumph Spitfire was Triumph's attempt to take on the Austin Healey Sprite and the new MG Midget. That was the beauty of the Herald's separate chassis design; new bodies could be freely fitted and adapted to the same running gear - and history has shown that the Spitfire was a wise decision; outlasting its parent model by a whole decade.

The Triumph Spitfire is a small British two-seat sports car, introduced at the London Motor Show in 1962 and manufactured between 1962 and 1980. The vehicle was based on a design produced for Standard-Triumph in 1957 by Italian designer Giovanni Michelotti. The car was largely based upon the chassis of the Triumph Herald saloon, but shortened and without the Herald's outrigger sections. The Herald's running gear and Standard SC engine were also carried over. The Spitfire was manufactured at the
